"25 minutes of English"

Lesson8.

Topic: "Accommodation"

Date: 23.06.16

L Task 20. Listen to the people talking about their hotel rooms. Decide if the statements are true (T) or false (F).

1. The woman says that she likes listening to the noise of the traffic. ____
2. The man says that the room has a beautiful view of the park. ____
3. The woman likes the room because she doesn't hear anything at night. ____
4. The woman is happy with the room because everything is in working order. ____
5. The man is glad that he can hear the people in the room next door. ____
6. The man is very happy with a bed and a modern bath. ____
7. The man doesn't like the price and the size of the room. ____
8. The woman doesn't like the bed and a sound of air-conditioning. ____

LEARN MORE!

S Task 21. Look at the houses where people may live in the future. Some of them are designed for living in the rural area, some of them for living in urban area and some for living on the water. Which of the houses do you like best of all? Why?

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

R Task 22. Read the text. What do you think about it?

Will we live on the water?

In the world where two thirds of the Earth's surface consists of water and in times when the sea level slowly raises, to live on the water can be a solution.

Floating houses have existed for a long time but to live by the water becomes more popular and floating houses are a common sight in ports around the world. Today, there is also floating hotel and floating office. Many people believe that the house on the water is the future.

Water, waste water, electricity, telephone, common antenna and internet are connected to the public infrastructure just like a house on land.

Some architects dream of building cities on the oceans. Such dreams may become a reality sooner than expected. Man is slowly running out of habitable space on the earth. He may soon have to turn to the ocean to expand space. This is when the utopian sea cities of our future may come into existence. Maybe it will be a better world.