Visiting a Military Base

R Task 19a. Read the text. Talk about Camp Humphreys Military base in South Korea.

A Unique Military Base Project

The Army at Camp Humphreys, South Korea, is building a twin six-story barracks-dining hall complex that will house and feed some of the thousands of additional troops eventually to be stationed at the base.

Outdoor volleyball and basketball courts and a covered picnic area also are planned for the complex. Both barracks buildings will house 204 troops in 102 rooms. Each room will have a bathroom and shower to be shared by the two occupants, and wiring for phone, Internet and cable TV service. Also in each building will be two elevators. Besides rooms on all six floors, plans call for an exercise room, laundry room, and mud room on the first floor.

A common kitchen area is planned for the second floor; storage areas for the third, fourth and fifth; and a lounge for the sixth. The one-story ground-floor dining hall will accommodate 800 diners. Among planned features are a carry-out food area and islands for a salad bar, hot and cold foods and other amenities now common in Army dining halls. The project also will see construction of a communications building for the base and a set of electrical improvements.
